BIO

I have worked with individuals, families, and businesses for over three decades regarding wealth management, planning for children's and grandchildren's educational needs, managing income in retirement and planning for the "certainty of uncertainty". I am a Financial Advisor with Ameriprise.

I am a native Atlantan. My wife and I have two married sons, two young grandchildren, and two dogs.

Topic: "The Conversation"

It will cover steps people can take to plan ahead for difficult transitions.

For example, if the necessary steps had not been taken in advance:

1. How would one determine which organizations the deceased loved one would have wanted contributions to be received in his or her honor?
2. How would one determine the location of C.D.s, stocks, bonds, and/or mutual funds of the deceased?
3. How would one determine the length of time to keep a comatose family member on life support?

These and other examples will be covered.
